<center>Week 12 Summary</center>

Summary

This week's lecture goes over different Bootstrap components that we can use in the project. Basically, like different classes and attributes for it. Few of them I find it interesting and I might go-ahead to use, like carousel and scrollspy. The bootstrap website and w3schools provide clear instructions on how to deploy it to the webpage.

Pre-class reading and post-class reading give some of the components we can look at, and code demonstrates how to use them, I find it useful and can be used as a reference when I am working on my project code.
